

WiFi routers support a variety of security protocols to secure wireless networks: WEP, WPA and WPA2. However WPA2 is recommended over its predecessor WPA (Wi-Fi Protected Access). Probably the only downside of WPA2 is how much processing power it needs to protect your network.